

This week went really well for me! I completed a couple of assignments early and just waited until the due date to submit them. I wanted to look over them and make sure they were to my satisfaction before handing them in. I also accepted working extra shifts at my job this weekend which will give me a lot of extra pay and also a free weekday where I can just work on finishing all of my remaining assignments. I was able to manage my time well and learn a few things. I also was able to have enough time to prepare for the next class.

This course has helped me really get motivated to focus on assignments and buckle down on school work. It also has helped me manage stress! I was very worried I wouldn't do well in school this month because of lots of issues in my personal life, but school ended up being something to take my mind off of those worries. In the end I was able to take care of everything and am feeling confident and motivated for the next class.
